Seeking Advice : For Executives and Business Advisors

Like a global concierge service for direct investment decision-makers, our role is to help you find what you need - quickly.

The following page outlines topics which are often helpful for us to know so that we can quickly offer good suggestions, but just call us to discuss your interests, or send us an e-mail or fax as above.

A typical reply may require only a few bullet points to outline what you need, after which we usually need to discuss your requirements in a little more detail before making actionable suggestions.

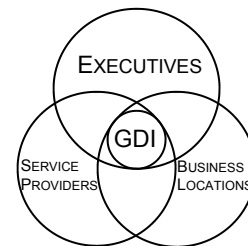

It is usually helpful to receive :

- Your website and contact details
- Specific action required - what is needed at this time? Likely later?
- Level of urgency, confidentiality
- Background : What business changes are happening or foreseen? What is driving your enquiry or interests?
- Scope of change; what is at stake?
- Risks foreseen, and what is needed to address them adequately
- Project parameters, investment scale
- Prior research, gaps, work in progress
- Critical factors remaining to address
- Best time and method to follow-up
- Service providers already contacted

We use replies to guide our research and referral work in response to enquiries. The enquiry is not distributed to others unless that turns out to be what you want, such as to help gather information or to brief a relevant professional contact appropriately when making a referral.

We deliver value by sharing actionable market knowledge and contacts through working relationships with:

- Top executives facing strategic choices about where they will do business : where to establish, expand, move or restructure operations, R&D, or alliances as their markets or plans change.
- Economic development professionals representing areas which are highly motivated to attract and retain business.
- Professional service providers for project support and investment interests in North America, Europe, Asia, or worldwide.

Executives and their advisors can quickly access thousands of websites of service providers and economic development organizations through the many contact directories we maintain on our website.

Although you can already find websites quickly when necessary in this manner, the fastest solution is typically to simply call or e-mail us and tell us what you need to find. If we don't know, we'll say so, but our extensive network of contacts and research experience in this niche usually enables us to come up with solutions pretty quickly. That's our specialty.
