GUIDE Network Survey : Professional Service Providers

We would appreciate your response to our global GUIDE Network Survey.

We are surveying leading professional service providers to update our network of contacts so that we can quickly and effectively respond to enquiries from executives and their advisors about the services they need to find in potential new business locations worldwide.

Replies should only take a few minutes by e-mail (preferred), fax, or mail.

The questions do not involve detailed or sensitive data. A typical reply may require only one page with bullet points highlighting relevant services and how to obtain further details when necessary.

The eight quick survey topics are listed on the following form for convenience :

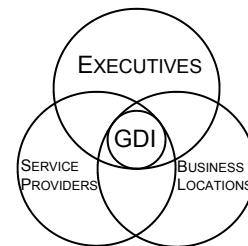

- Website and contact details
- Scope of services offered related to direct investment interests or projects
- What differentiates; value proposition
- Recent developments of interest
- Industry focus or typical client profile
- Geographic area served
- Alliances with other service providers
- Other suggested information sources

We use replies to support our referral work in response to executive enquiries.

We can also publish Survey responses on request through our website for quick reference by investors and their advisors. There is a small fee for this extra work to highlight capabilities for all our contacts.

We deliver value by sharing actionable market knowledge and contacts through working relationships with:

- Top executives facing strategic choices about where they will do business : where to establish, expand, move or restructure operations, R&D, or alliances as their markets or plans change.
- Economic development professionals representing areas which are highly motivated to attract and retain business.
- Professional service providers for project support and investment interests in North America, Europe, Asia, or worldwide.

Executives and their advisors can quickly access thousands of websites of service providers and economic development organizations through the many contact directories we maintain on our website.

Although we can already find your website quickly when necessary, this basic Survey response introduces why your service may be of interest to an investor. It serves as a standard executive summary presentation.

GUIDE Service Profiles can highlight the benefits of a service in more detail, or we can seek and introduce relevant clients.
